MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 75

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2023 series for most Cambridge IGCSE, Cambridge International A and AS Level and Cambridge Pre-U components, and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 11 printed pages.

Generic Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptors for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

Social Science-Specific Marking Principles (for point-based marking)*1 Components using point-based marking:

- Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

- a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term)
- b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct
- c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons ...).
- d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used wrongly.)
- e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities
- f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).
- g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion)

2 Presentation of mark scheme:

- Slashes (/) or the word 'or' separate alternative ways of making the same point.
- Semi colons (;) bullet points (•) or figures in brackets (1) separate different points.
- Content in the answer column in brackets is for examiner information/context to clarify the marking but is not required to earn the mark (except Accounting syllabuses where they indicate negative numbers).

3 Annotation:

- For point marking, ticks can be used to indicate correct answers and crosses can be used to indicate wrong answers. There is no direct relationship between ticks and marks. Ticks have no defined meaning for levels of response marking.
- For levels of response marking, the level awarded should be annotated on the script.
- Other annotations will be used by examiners as agreed during standardisation, and the meaning will be understood by all examiners who marked that paper.

Guidance on using levels-based mark schemes

Marking of work should be positive, rewarding achievement where possible, but clearly differentiating across the whole range of marks, where appropriate.

The marker should look at the work and then make a judgement about which level statement is the best fit. In practice, work does not always match one level statement precisely so a judgement may need to be made between two or more level statements.

Once a best-fit level statement has been identified, use the following guidance to decide on a specific mark:

- If the candidate's work convincingly meets the level statement, award the highest mark.
- If the candidate's work adequately meets the level statement, award the most appropriate mark in the middle of the range (where middle marks are available).
- If the candidate's work just meets the level statement, award the lowest mark.

Assessment objectivesAO1 Knowledge and understanding

- Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of legal concepts, principles and rules.
- Use statutes, cases, examples and legal terminology.

AO2 Analysis and application

- Analyse legal concepts, principles and rules.
- Apply legal concepts, principles and rules.

AO3 Evaluation

- Evaluate legal concepts, principles and rules.
- Communicate legal argument coherently on the basis of evidence.

Did Asif have a ‘genuine choice’ whether or not to complete installation of the windows (probably no) but he had a choice whether or not to use the window frames left by Bilal. Moreover, although there is no express provision for it in the contract, could the contract be construed as being divisible? • Advise Asif whether he should pay Carl on the basis of substantial performance. The sum agreed minus cost of replacing the one defective wash basin. • Advise Asif whether his sudden decision to turn the area at the rear of the building into a car park amounts to prevention of performance. Consider whether Dora can claim on a quantum meruit basis for any time spent designing the layout at the rear of the building and for researching the types of trees to be planted there. Accept all valid responses.	25

For example, s.2 guarantors, s.3 restitution. Accept any other relevant case cited for AO1. AO2 Analysis and application and AO3 Evaluation. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify Zoe as a minor and not having full contractual capacity. • Assess whether the rental of the premises is a voidable contract. Conclude that Zoe need not pay for the remaining rent following the repudiation of the contract but as she operated her salon from there for the first six months she has received something from the contract and so is liable to pay rent due for this period. • Advise Zoe whether section 2 of the Minors' Contract Act 1987 applies to the bank loan. Conclude that although she is not liable to repay the loan, the contract could be enforced against her parents, as guarantors. • Advise Zoe whether the expensive new computer can be considered a contract for necessaries. Did Zoe need a new computer given that she already had one that would probably be appropriate for recording her customer bookings/ appointments? Advise Zoe that she may have to return the computer to the shop under the principles of restitution. Accept all valid responses.	25

3	Assess the extent to which equitable remedies in contract law achieve justice. Use Table B to mark candidate responses to this question. AO1 out of 12 marks. AO2 out of 5 marks. AO3 out of 8 marks. Indicative content Responses may include: AO1 Knowledge and understanding <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Explain general principles, for example, their discretionary nature. • Describe the equitable remedy of specific performance; definition, availability. For example, with unique goods (Cohen v Roche), when damages would not compensate (Beswick v Beswick). • Explain the purpose of an injunction and describe the different types (Warner Bros v Nelson). • Define rescission and describe its use and characteristics. • Describe specific restitution, definition and availability. For example, to prevent unjust enrichment (Nash v Inman). Accept any other relevant case cited for AO1. AO2 Analysis and application and AO3 Evaluation. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Contrast with the common law and comment on circumstances where the remedy of damages is inadequate and justice is not served. • Assess how equitable remedies achieve justice – in the variety and flexibility of their remedies, in their ability to be creative and to respond to individual circumstances/problems. • Discussion of individual cases to show how justice is achieved. • Assess to what extent the restrictions on the use of equitable remedies may prevent justice. For example; Specific performance is rarely awarded for contracts requiring constant supervision (Co –Op insurance Society Ltd v Argyll Stores (Holdings) Ltd). Injunctions are rarely mandatory for similar reasons and the courts are reluctant to grant prohibitory injunctions in personal service contracts to prevent specific performance by the back door (Warren v Mendy). Rescission is a very precise remedy and there are many bars to its award. For example, delay (Long v Lloyd). Specific restitution is usually only possible where there is a total failure of consideration and is not available for breach of contract. Accept all valid responses.	25

Communication of acceptance is only an issue when the parties are not dealing face to face and, as it will never fit every situation, some flexibility to it is necessary. • Assess why communication by post is treated differently. For example, the rule minimises difficulty of proof and places a limit on the offeror's power to withdraw. • Assess why the law doesn't appear to require much in the way of a positive act to allow conduct to infer acceptance. Should the law be clearer on what is needed to decide when the line between silence and conduct is crossed? • Assess why the offeror must waive the need to receive acceptance in unilateral contracts. For example, in reward cases, for reasons of practicality and to prevent injustice. Accept all valid responses.	25

The reason being that provided offer, acceptance and consideration are present a contract will be enforced because this indicates the parties intend to be legally bound. • Assess the merits of policy arguments for framing the law as it is – recognition of the seriousness of business agreements and the generally frivolous nature of domestic agreements to prevent the ‘floodgates of litigation’. • Assess whether it is justified because it respects freedom of contract, achieves certainty when the presumptions are followed and provides, flexibility by allowing presumptions to be rebutted. Accept all valid responses.	25
