Paper 2 Media Texts and Contexts

October/November 2021

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 50

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the October/November 2021 series for most Cambridge IGCSE™, Cambridge International A and AS Level components and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 15 printed pages.

PUBLISHEDGeneric Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptors for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

PUBLISHEDEnglish & Media subject specific general marking principles*(To be read in conjunction with the Generic Marking Principles (and requiring further guidance on how to place marks within levels))*Components using level descriptors:

- We use level descriptors as a guide to broad understanding of the qualities normally expected of, or typical of, work in a level.
- Level descriptors are a means of general guidance, and should not be interpreted as hurdle statements.
- Where indicative content notes are supplied for a question, these are not a prescription of required content, and must not be treated as such. Alternative correct points and unexpected answers in candidates' scripts must be given marks that fairly reflect the knowledge and skills demonstrated.
- While we may have legitimate expectations as to the ground most answers may occupy, we must at all times be prepared to meet candidates on their chosen ground, provided it is relevant ground (e.g. clearly related to and derived from a relevant passage/text and meeting the mark scheme requirements for the question).

Components using point-based marking:

Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

- a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term).
- b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct.
- c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons...).
- d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used wrongly.)
- e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities.
- f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).
- g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion).

Assessment Objectives

The Assessment Objectives are applied to each question. The assessment objectives for the paper are:

- AO1 Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of media concepts, contexts and critical debates, using terminology appropriately. (60%)

PUBLISHED

- AO2 Analyse media products, and evaluate their own work, by applying knowledge and understanding of theoretical and creative approaches, supported with relevant textual evidence. (40%)

The Level Descriptors guide examiners to an understanding of the qualities normally expected of, or typical of, work in a band. They are a means of general guidance, and must not be interpreted as hurdle statements. For the purposes of standardisation of marking, they are to be used in conjunction with the Standardisation scripts discussed during the coordination meeting and with Team Leaders, as well as the question-specific notes.

The indicative content provided is for general guidance; it is not designed as prescriptions of required content and must not be treated as such. Whilst there are legitimate expectations of the content of most answers, examiners may see responses that include ideas not covered in the indicative content. For these cases, examiners should credit valid responses fairly and not penalise candidates for including valid points outside the mark scheme.

Using a banded mark scheme

Place the answer in a level first. Look for the “best fit” of the answer into a level. An answer needs to show evidence of most but not necessarily ALL of the qualities described in a level in order to be placed in that band. Then award a mark for the relative position of the answer within the level.

Higher level responses (Levels 4 & 5) will demonstrate excellent knowledge and understanding of the key concepts (AO1). They should use a wide range of terminology accurately (AO1). They should show clear understanding of how meaning is created in the text (AO2). They should support their answer with many detailed references to the text (AO2).

Middle range responses (Level 3) will demonstrate satisfactory knowledge and understanding of the key concepts – there may be uneven coverage or some misunderstanding (AO1). They should use some terminology, but not always accurately (AO1). They should show some understanding of how meaning is created in the text (AO2). They should support their answer with some references to the text (AO2).

Basic responses (Levels 1 & 2) will demonstrate basic knowledge and understanding of the key concepts –misunderstanding might be common (AO1). They might use some terminology, but rarely accurately (AO1). They will have limited understanding of how meaning is created in the text (AO2). They rarely support their answer with references to the text (AO2).

1	Analyse how the extract from Bodyguard constructs meaning, including the specific representations of individuals, groups, events or places, through the following technical elements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • camera shots, angles, movement and composition • sound • mise-en-scène • editing. Specific notes on the sequence – likely areas of coverage Camera: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Static MCU on Budd to emphasise his watchfulness • naturalistic POV through window, partially obscured by passers by – we are directed to see what he sees (the mobile phone being destroyed and discarded) • Slow track in on Budd to show that he has observed this • POV – camera pans to follow suspicious character as far as possible • Shifts in focus through and across passengers – sense of disorientation – what is significant? Something seems ‘wrong’ • POV as train guard lingers by young man, assessing him – fidelity to POV as Budd watches the guard knock on the toilet door • Shots of Budd from equivalent position opposite him, with swaying motion – as if we share this space, this journey. Even the shot of the woman across the aisle is from this position • Long tracking shot in front of Budd as he moves purposefully down the train – we are literally retreating before him – he is powerful, driven • CUs of details around the toilet – especially the ‘engaged’ sign and the male/female sign – emphasising mystery about who is within • Camera dwells on Budd’s impassive expression (formulating a plan?) 	25	Candidates will be assessed on their ability to understand how meaning is constructed in a media text through the analysis of different technical areas. Marks are awarded for exploration of the following areas of the AOs: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Media concepts (AO1) [5 marks] • Contexts and debates (AO1) [5 marks] • Use of terminology (AO1) [5 marks] • Analysis of how meaning is created (AO2) [5 marks] • Use of examples (AO2) [5 marks] Candidates’ work should be judged on each of these criteria, and marks awarded according to the level attained. 1	Sound: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Mixture of naturalistic sounds of train, platform whistle and passengers with atmospheric sound design • Slow track into Budd is accompanied by low rumble, screech and sustained note – all to indicate significance and dramatic import • Similar use of low frequencies and dissonance as train pulls away • Non-diegetic music on the train – sustained notes – a slow build up to something – indication that something is happening beyond our immediate perception • Diegetic dialogue – low in the mix – we ‘overhear’ rather than hear the guard asking if everything is alright in the toilet – enhances realism • First bit of ‘transactional dialogue’ is after two minutes when Budd asks a woman to look after his kids. His “sorry madam” is formal – suggests a forces/services background. This is confirmed seconds later when he introduces himself as a police officer to the guard. • Expository dialogue with the guard – the situation is explained – he is curt, efficient • Sound is diegetic at this point – atmosphere takes a back seat to plot explanation – jargon of “SC019” throws us into the world of special forces • At the ‘shed’ – sirens, radio chatter in the background, car engines, splashes as the cars enter this space • Back on train – a diegetically-motivated but non-diegetic throbbing bass sound – again the approach of something dangerous is suggested • The diegetic phone sounds – breakup of the call at a critical moment which makes communication impossible and ramps up the tension

1	Mise-en-scène: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Naturalistic setting – train, station, display board – given dramatic heft by the darkness and sound • Use of windows, doorways, reflections – limited ability to see and ‘know’ • The ordinary made significant – the bottle of water vibrating as if to herald the arrival of something dangerous (as in Jurassic Park) • Character coding through costume and performance – he is neat, but ordinary, alert, focused – someone with heightened senses • Budd’s composure is contrasted with the anxiety of the guard • At the ‘shed’ – dark, wet, spotlights – inhospitable, dangerous • The iconography of crime drama – police cars, blue flashing lights – signifiers of emergency Editing: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Characterised by cuts between Budd and what he sees – indicates his ability to apprehend the situation, and indicates its significance to us. • Sedate pace – shots are held, details sink in, we are invited to look for significance • Mini montage of small details as the train sets off – the water bottle, the man scratching his ear, the reflection in the window • Parallel action when the situation is revealed – cutting between the ‘shed’ and the train in order to build tension Meaning: The opening of Bodyguard produces tension and jeopardy in a mundane, everyday situation. The business of train travel, the familiarity of the carriage, and the passengers’ behaviour are all invested with strangeness and significance via the point of view of our main character. His specialness is signalled through his observational abilities, and the fact that we see what he sees, yet have to catch up with his conclusions. Within a short space of time, we move from what appears to be an ordinary journey into an emergency situation; the successful outcome of which seems to be largely dependent on Budd.
