May/June 2023

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 40

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2023 series for most Cambridge IGCSE, Cambridge International A and AS Level and Cambridge Pre-U components, and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 15 printed pages.

PUBLISHEDGeneric Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptors for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

PUBLISHEDSocial Science-Specific Marking Principles
(for point-based marking)*1 Components using point-based marking:

- Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

- a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term)
- b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct
- c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons ...).
- d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used wrongly.)
- e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities
- f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).
- g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However, spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion).

2 Presentation of mark scheme:

- Slashes (/) or the word 'or' separate alternative ways of making the same point.
- Semi colons (;) bullet points (•) or figures in brackets (1) separate different points.
- Content in the answer column in brackets is for examiner information/context to clarify the marking but is not required to earn the mark (except Accounting syllabuses where they indicate negative numbers).

3 Calculation questions:

- The mark scheme will show the steps in the most likely correct method(s), the mark for each step, the correct answer(s) and the mark for each answer.
- If working/explanation is considered essential for full credit, this will be indicated in the question paper and in the mark scheme. In all other instances, the correct answer to a calculation should be given full credit, even if no supporting working is shown.
- Where the candidate uses a valid method which is not covered by the mark scheme, award equivalent marks for reaching equivalent stages.
- Where an answer makes use of a candidate's own incorrect figure from previous working, the 'own figure rule' applies: full marks will be given if a correct and complete method is used. Further guidance will be included in the mark scheme where necessary and any exceptions to this general principle will be noted.

4 Annotation:

- For point marking, ticks can be used to indicate correct answers and crosses can be used to indicate wrong answers. There is no direct relationship between ticks and marks. Ticks have no defined meaning for levels of response marking.
- For levels of response marking, the level awarded should be annotated on the script.
- Other annotations will be used by examiners as agreed during standardisation, and the meaning will be understood by all examiners who marked that paper.

Guidance on using levels-based marking

Marking of work should be positive, rewarding achievement where possible, but clearly differentiating across the whole range of marks, where appropriate.

The examiner should look at the work and then make a judgement about which level statement is the best fit. In practice, work does not always match one level statement precisely so a judgement may need to be made between two or more level statements.

Once a best-fit level statement has been identified, use the following guidance to decide on a specific mark:

- If the candidate's work convincingly meets the level statement, award the highest mark.
- If the candidate's work adequately meets the level statement, award the most appropriate mark in the middle of the range.
- If the candidate's work just meets the level statement, award the lowest mark.
- L1, L2 etc. must be clearly annotated on the response at the point where the level is achieved.

Pan-global strategy will help with this. • Marketing can be shared across locations (20 countries) which should be able to keep marketing costs down in a pan-global strategy. • Pan-global strategy allows the brand identity to be maintained leading to repeat custom and trust in the RHR locations. | |

| 1 | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Collaboration with the travel agent opens up another distribution and marketing channel for RHR, saving on some costs, possible marketing economies of scale, helping to keep profit margins healthy. • The expansion in 4 key areas – Europe, Asia, USA and South America – allows marketing to be tailored to those markets if needed, to target the RHR customer and increase sales. Central budget can be used to help establish this. • Development of the app has standardised the experience of the customer while still being able to target them with marketing for the treatments, restaurants etc. while on holiday through the app. App will have cost less than a large scale global campaign. • Global use of the app and the loyalty scheme allows pan-global marketing to be used for this feature, saving money on producing different, regional strategies. • Collaboration with the travel agent may have helped them market the business through those agents more effectively on a local scale, but this came at a cost of 49% of the business. AO4 Evaluation (L1 EVAL and L2 EVAL and L3 EVAL): Evaluation will depend upon which element/s of marketing that have been discussed previously. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Collaboration has meant that 49% of the company was owned by the travel agent until 2021. However, the travel agent is a global business and opens up distribution of the holidays to a wider market, leading to increased sales and profits. • RHR maintain a marketing budget that will cost them a considerable amount of money alongside its marketing by the travel agent. [Is that still going ahead?] Is this necessary? Could money be spent elsewhere? How important is it to have their own marketing plan? If the aim is to be pan-global what is this budget for? • After the global recession (2008–12), how much business did they lose? No investment is made in new locations so are they having to sell a lot of their existing holidays as people come out of the recession? • RHR could have adopted to use a pan-global strategy to help maintain a brand image and cut the costs of having to develop local strategies in the increasing markets it operates in. While this saves money, should they be targeting individual countries/markets to appeal to the wants of those customers? • RHR sells holidays across the globe thanks to the internet booking so needs a strategy that projects a global image, making it easier to use a pan-global approach. • RHR may need to develop local strategies to target the segments who want all-inclusive holidays which could push up their marketing costs. • The development of the app has made it easier to target customers regardless of which country they are based in, helping them to grow customer engagement and ultimately sales across its resorts. However how much did this cost and is it generating the desired return? Is it something customers want? What is the uptake of this app? | |

| 1 | <ul style="list-style-type: none">Buyout of the travel agent may make it harder to market on a local scale and may increase the marketing costs of RHR, they will have to increase marketing spend now they do not have exclusivity with the travel agent.
