1 Jake's Cakes (JC)

Jake started baking cakes while at university. He baked cakes for friends' birthdays and other celebrations. He posted pictures of his cakes on social media sites where they received very positive feedback and were widely shared.

In 2021 Jake started JC, a small business, using his parents' kitchen. JC bakes cakes and sells them online. Jake created a website where customers design and order unique cakes. Jake uses digital promotion as the main method of promoting his products. JC has only used retained earnings to invest in marketing and new equipment.

In 2023, Jake made a cake for a celebrity who shared JC's social media posts with their social media followers. As a result of this an investor approached Jake. The investor offered to provide a $25 000 capital investment to help Jake grow the business. However, Jake does not want to take on an equal partner.

Jake is considering a different plan for growth. His parents have agreed to let him convert their garage into his commercial kitchen. He has prepared a business plan and applied for a bank loan of $15 000 to finance this growth. He has produced a cash flow forecast for the first quarter of 2024.

Table 1.1: JC's cash flow forecast 2024 ($ 000)

2 Custom motorcycles (CM)

CM is a private limited company. It was set up by Joyce, who identified a gap in the market for specialist motorcycle components. CM's engineers make the components using job production. The engineers are highly skilled, trained and motivated and very proud of their high-quality products which are sold using price skimming.

CM was featured in a popular motorcycle magazine in autumn 2022, which has increased CM's reputation for quality unique products. This led to an increase in CM's sales as shown in Fig. 2.1.

Lead times for CM's products have increased from 4 weeks to 10 weeks. This has put additional pressure onto CM's engineers, who are salaried employees. They often have to work evenings and weekends.

Harry, the Sales Manager, thinks demand is going to continue to increase. He wants CM to employ more skilled engineers and continue to use job production. However, Joyce wants CM to invest in new technology and change from using job production to batch production.

- (a) (i) Identify one non-financial motivator. [1]
- (ii) Explain the term demand. [3]
- (b) (i) Refer to Fig. 2.1. Calculate the total market growth between summer 2022 and summer 2023. [3]
- (ii) Explain one benefit to CM of using price skimming. [3]
- (c) Analyse two impacts on CM of its employees having a poor work-life balance. [8]
- (d) Evaluate whether CM should change its method of production. [12]
