Section 1 Directed Writing

Question 1

Your elderly relative lives alone and is considering joining the Homeshare scheme. They think this might help not just themselves, but a young person too. They are determined to remain independent and have contacted you for advice.

Write a letter to your elderly relative, in which you should:

- Explain what you think might be the advantages and potential disadvantages for any young person sharing your relative's house in the Homeshare scheme.
- Evaluate whether you think joining the Homeshare scheme would be a good idea for your relative or not. Give reasons and examples to support what you say.

You should use evidence from the two passages you have read to help you answer this question. Remember to write the letter using your own words.

Write about 250 to 350 words.

Dear Grandma

How are you? I hope everything is alright and I hear that you are considering joining the Homeshare scheme.

If you need company at home and you want somebody to help cook for you, wash up for you and even do the shopping for you, I would advise you to do the Homeshare scheme. It means that you don't have to worry about going out for shopping for food or remembering when you need to start cooking your dinner. It could be as if you had one of your grandchildren at your home most of the time because on shared that a girl named Beth agreed to give up 10 hours weekly to help her 97 year old flatmate and agree to spend at least five nights there a week.

On the other hand, these schemes don't always work out. In fact the flatmates 97 year old flatmate had two previous house shares that didn't work out. These home shares can also make you lazy because having somebody else do all the work means that, you wouldn't need to do anything around the house. This could also mean that you could become dependant on your home share flatmate and she would have to leave eventually.

However joining this scheme could mean that you are getting vital help ~~in~~ which you need at your age and you're ~~are~~ also helping a young adult to ^{they} start their career. It means that ~~she~~ can live at your house for a cheaper price than any where else in your neighbourhood. Also this is all free for you, you don't have to pay a penny but the home sharer does, which means you also be getting a new flow of money into your bank account, which could help ~~that~~ fund that new extension you wanted. ~~You are almost~~ It is as if someone is paying you to help give you vital help that you need, and that is very good because on published data, 800,000 older people are going without vital help.

~~Howevr~~ But this vital help is not on offer 24-7 because the house sharer would also need to live life and they would go out with their friends or might have work which is far away and you have to remember that.

They have family as well. Also not all of these people are nice are they could treat you badly.

In conclusion I think that you should join the Homeshare Scheme, as it will provide you vital help and will also give you a bit more money.

I was at the top of the Empire Sky scraper and I looked down.

There were other buildings skyscrapers towering over the streets like giants searching for prey.

There were children playing in a yard with their dad, they were all happy and the father stood there laughing and hoping they would never grow up. There was a football game in a park, sweat meandered down the side of a player's cheek as he went to take a penalty, whilst the other players were waiting with their eyes locked on the goal.

As I saw two men approach each other, both looking one had bloodshot eyes and stared at the other man with disgust. He clenched his fist and moved forward, ~~every~~ the other man stood there frozen to a spot and looked at the man approaching him with horror, it looked like he had seen a ghost. The man looked up at me with his anger, so I looked away.

The sun shone down at the building reflecting off glass panels, blinding people eyes as they tried to look at these infrastructures.

The roads and streets looked tired and worn out due to the millions of footsteps that they encounter every day. They look like they are screaming for help and repair.

However they lit with lots of dazzling colours and

It was almost as if I was looking a rainbow due to the ^{thousands} ~~millions~~ of cars that crossed as I gazed.
 I saw a man eating a ^{delicious} burger from McDonalds.
 The ~~taste~~ ~~thing~~ is. As soon as the burger entered his mouth, he ~~was~~ ~~in~~ ~~heaven~~ his mouth was in heaven, it had been craving this for some time and had been answered. ~~He~~
 As when he bit into the burger his mouth went on a roller coaster ride, from being in heaven to wanting more. The fat sizzling out as his teeth ripped through the burger. The custard and ketchup ~~was~~ ending up all down his shirt.
 I leaned right and saw a mother bird sewing through the air with worm trapped inside its beak, the worm looked like it had given up on survival as didn't move.
 A dark green tree was the home of the ^{baby birds} ~~children~~ which looked as if they had only been born today, but straight away presented food.
