Shylock:	Gaoler, look to him. Tell not me of mercy – This is the fool that lent out money gratis. Gaoler, look to him.
Antonio:	Hear me yet, good Shylock.	5
Shylock:	I'll have my bond; speak not against my bond. I have sworn an oath that I will have my bond. Thou call'dst me dog before thou hadst a cause, But, since I am a dog, beware my fangs; The Duke shall grant me justice. I do wonder, Thou naughty gaoler, that thou art so fond To come abroad with him at his request.	10
Antonio:	I pray thee hear me speak.
Shylock:	I'll have my bond. I will not hear thee speak; I'll have my bond; and therefore speak no more. I'll not be made a soft and dull-ey'd fool, To shake the head, relent, and sigh, and yield, To Christian intercessors. Follow not; I'll have no speaking; I will have my bond.	15
	[Exit.	20
Solanio:	It is the most impenetrable cur That ever kept with men.
Antonio:	Let him alone; I'll follow him no more with bootless prayers. He seeks my life; his reason well I know: I oft deliver'd from his forfeitures Many that have at times made moan to me; Therefore he hates me.	25
Solanio:	I am sure the Duke Will never grant this forfeiture to hold.	30
Antonio:	The Duke cannot deny the course of law; For the commodity that strangers have With us in Venice, if it be denied, Will much impeach the justice of the state, Since that the trade and profit of the city Consisteth of all nations. Therefore, go; These griefs and losses have so bated me That I shall hardly spare a pound of flesh To-morrow to my bloody creditor. Well, gaoler, on; pray God Bassanio come To see me pay his debt, and then I care not.	35 40

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE: Henry V

Remember to support your ideas with details from the writing.

Either *7 Read this passage carefully, and then answer the question that follows it:

Williams:	We see yonder the beginning of the day, but I think we shall never see the end of it. Who goes there?
King:	A friend.
Williams:	Under what captain serve you?
King:	Under Sir Thomas Erpingham.	5
Williams:	A good old commander and a most kind gentleman. I pray you, what thinks he of our estate?
King:	Even as men wreck'd upon a sand, that look to be wash'd off the next tide.
Bates:	He hath not told his thought to the King?	10
King:	No; nor it is not meet he should. For though I speak it to you, I think the King is but a man as I am: the violet smells to him as it doth to me; the element shows to him as it doth to me; all his senses have but human conditions; his ceremonies laid by, in his nakedness he appears but a man; and though his affections are higher mounted than ours, yet, when they stoop, they stoop with the like wing. Therefore, when he sees reason of fears, as we do, his fears, out of doubt, be of the same relish as ours are; yet, in reason, no man should possess him with any appearance of fear, lest he, by showing it, should dishearten his army.	15
Bates:	He may show what outward courage he will; but I believe, as cold a night as 'tis, he could wish himself in Thames up to the neck; and so I would he were, and I by him, at all adventures, so we were quit here.	20
King:	By my troth, I will speak my conscience of the King: I think he would not wish himself anywhere but where he is.
Bates:	Then I would he were here alone; so should he be sure to be ransomed, and a many poor men's lives saved.	25
King:	I dare say you love him not so ill to wish him here alone, howsoever you speak this, to feel other men's minds; methinks I could not die anywhere so contented as in the King's company, his cause being just and his quarrel honourable.	30
Williams:	That's more than we know.	35
Bates:	Ay, or more than we should seek after; for we know enough if we know we are the King's subjects. If his cause be wrong, our obedience to the King wipes the crime of it out of us.	40
Williams:	But if the cause be not good, the King himself hath a heavy reckoning to make when all those legs and arms and heads, chopp'd off in a battle, shall join together at the latter day and cry all 'We died at such a place' – some swearing, some crying for a surgeon, some upon their wives left poor behind them, some upon the debts they owe, some upon their children rawly left. I am afraid there are few die well that die in a battle; for how can they charitably dispose of anything when blood is their argument? Now, if these men do not die well, it will be a	45

black matter for the King that led them to it; who to disobey were against all proportion of subjection.

J. LAWRENCE & R.E. LEE: Inherit The Wind

Remember to support your ideas with details from the writing.

Either *9 Read this passage carefully, and then answer the question that follows it:

In and around the Hillsboro Courthouse. The foreground is the actual courtroom, with jury box, judge's bench and a scattering of trial-scarred chairs and counsel tables. The back wall of the courtroom is non-existent. On a raked level above it is the courthouse square, the Main Street and the converging streets of the town. This is not so much a literal view of Hillsboro as it is an impression of a sleepy, obscure country town about to be vigorously awakened. 5

It is important to the concept of the play that the town is visible always, looming there, as much on trial as the individual defendant. The crowd is equally important throughout, so that the court becomes an arena, with active spectators on all sides of it. It is an hour after dawn on a July day that promises to be a scorcher. Howard, a boy of thirteen, wanders onto the courthouse lawn. He is barefoot, wearing a pair of his pa's cut-down overalls. He carries an improvised fishing pole and a tin can. He studies the ground carefully, searching for something. A young girl's voice calls from offstage. 10

Melinda: [Calling sweetly.] How-ard ...! [HOWARD, annoyed, turns and looks toward the voice. MELINDA, a healthy pigtailed girl of twelve, skips on.] Hello, Howard. [HOWARD is disinterested, continues to search the ground.] 20

Howard: 'Lo, Melinda.

Melinda: [Making conversation.] I think it's gonna be hotter'n yesterday. That rain last night didn't do much good. 25

Howard: [Professionally.] It brought up the worms. [Suddenly he spots one in the lawn. Swiftly he grabs for it, and holds it up proudly.] Lookit this fat one! [He chases her.]

Melinda: [Shivering.] How can you touch 'em? It makes me all goose-bumpy! [HOWARD dangles it in front of her face. She backs away, shuddering.] 30

Howard: What're yuh skeered of? You was a worm once!

Melinda: [Shocked.] I wasn't neither!

Howard: You was so! When the whole world was covered with water, there was nuthin' but worms and blobs of jelly. And you and your whole family was worms! 35

Melinda: We was not!

Howard: Blobs of jelly, then.

Melinda: Howard Blair, that's sinful talk! I'm gonna tell my Pa and he'll make you wash your mouth out with soap! 40

Howard: Ahhh, your old man's a monkey! [MELINDA gasps. She turns indignantly and runs off. HOWARD shrugs in the manner of a man-of-the-world.] 'Bye, Lindy. [RACHEL enters. She is 22, pretty, but not beautiful. She wears a cotton summer dress. She carries a small composition paper suitcase. There is a tense, distraught air about her. She may have been crying. She looks about nervously, as 45

- if she doesn't want to be seen. When she sees HOWARD, she hesitates, then she scurries downstage into the courthouse area in the hope that the boy will not notice her. But he does see RACHEL, and watches her with puzzled curiosity. Then as he exits he addresses the worm, dangling it in the air.]* What do you wanta be when you grow up? [He goes off. RACHEL stands uncertainly in the courthouse area. Unsure, she looks about.] 50
- Rachel:* [Tentatively, calling.] Mr. Meeker ...?
- Meeker:* [A little irritably. From off R.] Who is it? [After a pause, MR. MEEKER, the bailiff, enters. There is no collar on his shirt, his hair is tousled, and there is still a bit of shaving soap on his face, which he is wiping off with a towel as he enters.] Why, hello, Rachel. 'Scuse the way I look. [He wipes the soap out of his ear. Then he notices her suitcase.] Not goin' away are you? Excitement's just startin'. 55
- Rachel:* [Earnestly.] Mr. Meeker, don't let my father know I came here. 60
- Meeker:* [Shrugs.] The Reverend don't tell me his business. Don't know why I should tell him mine.
- Rachel:* I want to see Bert Cates. Is he all right?
- Meeker:* Don't know why he shouldn't be. I always figured the safest place in the world is in jail. 65
- Rachel:* Can I go down and see him?
- Meeker:* Ain't a very proper place for a minister's daughter.
- Rachel:* I only want to see him for a minute.
