Textbook example of a beach cross-section

Fig. 2 for Question 1

Measuring the beach cross-section

Method

- 1 Stretch the tape measure across the beach from the cliff to the sea. A student holds the tape measure at each end.
- 2 Use a clinometer (or spirit level) to make sure the tape measure is horizontal.
- 3 Measure the difference in height between the tape measure and the surface of the beach in metres.
- 4 Repeat this measurement every metre across the beach.
- 5 If the difference in height becomes too big to measure, lower the tape measure back to the beach level again. Remember to add on the height which the tape was lowered each time.
