Paper 2 Managing and Marketing Destinations

May/June 2025

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 80

---

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the May/June 2025 series for most Cambridge IGCSE, Cambridge International A and AS Level components, and some Cambridge O Level components.

This document consists of 19 printed pages.

Generic Marking Principles

These general marking principles must be applied by all examiners when marking candidate answers. They should be applied alongside the specific content of the mark scheme or generic level descriptions for a question. Each question paper and mark scheme will also comply with these marking principles.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 1:

Marks must be awarded in line with:

- the specific content of the mark scheme or the generic level descriptors for the question
- the specific skills defined in the mark scheme or in the generic level descriptors for the question
- the standard of response required by a candidate as exemplified by the standardisation scripts.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 2:

Marks awarded are always whole marks (not half marks, or other fractions).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 3:

Marks must be awarded positively:

- marks are awarded for correct/valid answers, as defined in the mark scheme. However, credit is given for valid answers which go beyond the scope of the syllabus and mark scheme, referring to your Team Leader as appropriate
- marks are awarded when candidates clearly demonstrate what they know and can do
- marks are not deducted for errors
- marks are not deducted for omissions
- answers should only be judged on the quality of spelling, punctuation and grammar when these features are specifically assessed by the question as indicated by the mark scheme. The meaning, however, should be unambiguous.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 4:

Rules must be applied consistently, e.g. in situations where candidates have not followed instructions or in the application of generic level descriptors.

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 5:

Marks should be awarded using the full range of marks defined in the mark scheme for the question (however; the use of the full mark range may be limited according to the quality of the candidate responses seen).

GENERIC MARKING PRINCIPLE 6:

Marks awarded are based solely on the requirements as defined in the mark scheme. Marks should not be awarded with grade thresholds or grade descriptors in mind.

Social Science-Specific Marking Principles (for point-based marking)*1 Components using point-based marking:

- Point marking is often used to reward knowledge, understanding and application of skills. We give credit where the candidate's answer shows relevant knowledge, understanding and application of skills in answering the question. We do not give credit where the answer shows confusion.

From this it follows that we:

- a DO credit answers which are worded differently from the mark scheme if they clearly convey the same meaning (unless the mark scheme requires a specific term)
- b DO credit alternative answers/examples which are not written in the mark scheme if they are correct
- c DO credit answers where candidates give more than one correct answer in one prompt/numbered/scaffolded space where extended writing is required rather than list-type answers. For example, questions that require n reasons (e.g. State two reasons ...).
- d DO NOT credit answers simply for using a 'key term' unless that is all that is required. (Check for evidence it is understood and not used wrongly.)
- e DO NOT credit answers which are obviously self-contradicting or trying to cover all possibilities
- f DO NOT give further credit for what is effectively repetition of a correct point already credited unless the language itself is being tested. This applies equally to 'mirror statements' (i.e. polluted/not polluted).
- g DO NOT require spellings to be correct, unless this is part of the test. However spellings of syllabus terms must allow for clear and unambiguous separation from other syllabus terms with which they may be confused (e.g. Corrasion/Corrosion)

2 Presentation of mark scheme:

- Slashes (/) or the word 'or' separate alternative ways of making the same point.
- Semi colons (;) bullet points (•) or figures in brackets (1) separate different points.
- Content in the answer column in brackets is for examiner information/context to clarify the marking but is not required to earn the mark (except Accounting syllabuses where they indicate negative numbers).

3 Calculation questions:

- The mark scheme will show the steps in the most likely correct method(s), the mark for each step, the correct answer(s) and the mark for each answer
- If working/explanation is considered essential for full credit, this will be indicated in the question paper and in the mark scheme. In all other instances, the correct answer to a calculation should be given full credit, even if no supporting working is shown.
- Where the candidate uses a valid method which is not covered by the mark scheme, award equivalent marks for reaching equivalent stages.
- Where an answer makes use of a candidate's own incorrect figure from previous working, the 'own figure rule' applies: full marks will be given if a correct and complete method is used. Further guidance will be included in the mark scheme where necessary and any exceptions to this general principle will be noted.

4 Annotation:

- For point marking, ticks can be used to indicate correct answers and crosses can be used to indicate wrong answers. There is no direct relationship between ticks and marks. Ticks have no defined meaning for levels of response marking.
- For levels of response marking, the level awarded should be annotated on the script.
- Other annotations will be used by examiners as agreed during standardisation, and the meaning will be understood by all examiners who marked that paper.

Annotations guidance for centres

Examiners use a system of annotations as a shorthand for communicating their marking decisions to one another. Examiners are trained during the standardisation process on how and when to use annotations. The purpose of annotations is to inform the standardisation and monitoring processes and guide the supervising examiners when they are checking the work of examiners within their team. The meaning of annotations and how they are used is specific to each component and is understood by all examiners who mark the component.

We publish annotations in our mark schemes to help centres understand the annotations they may see on copies of scripts. Note that there may not be a direct correlation between the number of annotations on a script and the mark awarded. Similarly, the use of an annotation may not be an indication of the quality of the response.

The annotations listed below were available to examiners marking this component in this series.

Annotations

Annotation	Meaning
	Correct point
	Incorrect point
BOD	Benefit of doubt given
VG	Content of response too vague
NAQ	Not answered question
REP	Repetition
SEEN	Page or response seen by examiner
BP	Blank page
K	Knowledge
APP	Application
AN	Analysis
EVAL	Evaluation

Assessment objectives*AO1 Knowledge and understanding

Demonstrate knowledge and understanding of facts, terms and concepts of travel and tourism.

AO2 Application

Apply knowledge and understanding of facts, terms and concepts to familiar and unfamiliar contexts in travel and tourism.

AO3 Analysis

Analyse travel and tourism issues and show an understanding of the possible impacts of those issues on travel and tourism.

AO4 Evaluation

Evaluate information to develop arguments, understand implications, draw inferences and make judgements, recommendations and decisions.

This is easier than customers having to search on websites for the information.</li> <li>• Having a brochure means that customers can view the information at any time and do not need an internet connection or device to access it, particularly the older age group customers and those customers who do not have access or knowledge of how to use the internet.</li> <li>• Brochures about cruise holidays will contain all of the information that customers will require with regards to what they need to pack, excursions they can go on and full itinerary.</li> <li>• Printed publicity material can help to build brand awareness for cruise providers. Brochures and other printed materials often feature high quality images and graphics which will showcase the providers brand and style.</li> </ul>	9

Question	Answer	Marks
1(d)	AO4 Evaluation <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>For the providers, printed publicity material is an excellent way to promote their services to potential customers. Brochures contain various types of cruises to suit all budgets, destinations visited and amenities they offer on board their ships. Special deals or promotions can be highlighted enticing customers to book. Booking and contact details are in the brochure along with any trips or activities which can be booked prior to the cruise.</li> <li>Nowadays a lot of people have access to the internet, however, there are still many people who do not have access, particularly the elderly population who make up a large part of the cruise market's tourists. Having printed publicity material means that everybody has access to the information about cruises. Brochures can also be taken home and looked at in the customers own time, also it can be shared with family and friends who may also be interested in a cruise.</li> <li>There is a lot of information customers will be required to know and remember, from the overall itinerary to what they will need to pack. Brochures include all the on-board activities, different eating places, classes available and excursions at each port of call. Having a brochure to hand will act as a reminder and a point of reference for customers, they can spend their time choosing what they would like to take part in and book anything if necessary.</li> <li>Printed publicity material serves as a tool for reinforcing a cruise providers brand identity and image. Through constantly using logos, colours, typography and visuals customers are able to recognise and associate the brand with positive experiences. They are also able to target specific demographics by tailoring their design and distribution channels cruise providers are easily able to reach their desired audience.</li> </ul> Credit all valid responses.	9

Question	Answer	Marks
4(d)	AO4 Evaluation <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Printing and delivery costs can be expensive, especially if an eye catching and professional looking mailer or leaflet is wanted. The size of the leaflet will impact on printing costs. Distribution will take place and this can be costly depending on the size of the target audience or if door to door distribution is used then staff will need to be hired. With the rise in emails and social media, direct mail has become less effective. However, compared to traditional forms of advertising such as television advertisements, direct marketing can be more cost effective, especially when trying to reach a niche market such as adventure tourism.</li> <li>• The effectiveness of direct mail and adventure tourism leaflets can be lost as they can be easily discarded by the recipient. This will result in a waste of resources. When people receive direct mail daily along with other promotional materials they can be overlooked by the recipient. Also with the popularity of emails and social media physical mail may be seen as less relevant. The same applies to leaflets which can easily end up in the trash.</li> <li>• Limited reach is the main disadvantage of direct mail and leaflets. They depend upon physical delivery unlike digital marketing channels which can instantly reach a global audience. Direct mail and leaflets can only be distributed to specific locations or mailing addresses which makes it difficult to reach a broader audience. Direct mail can capture people's attention but they do not always engage the audience and are often seen as junk mail. Young people who are more likely to go on adventure holidays are often not included on direct marketing lists so their target market will not be reached.</li> </ul> Credit all valid responses.	9
