Introduction

This scheme of work has been designed to support you in your teaching and lesson planning. Making full use of this scheme of work will help you to improve both your teaching and your learners' potential. It is important to have a scheme of work in place in order for you to guarantee that the syllabus is covered fully. You can choose what approach to take and you know the nature of your institution and the levels of ability of your learners. What follows is just one possible approach you could take.

Suggestions for independent study (I) and formative assessment (F) are also included. Opportunities for differentiation are indicated as an Extension activity; there is the potential for differentiation by resource, grouping, expected level of outcome, and degree of support by teacher, throughout the scheme of work. Timings for activities and feedback are left to the judgment of the teacher, according to the level of the learners and size of the class. Length of time allocated to a task is another possible area for differentiation.

Recommended prior knowledge

Learners should be familiar with, and have a reasonable knowledge and understanding of:

- the conventions of written English, for example, punctuation, paragraphing, spelling and grammar
- parts of speech
- the idea of range of tone, register and vocabulary
- reading of English texts and in expressing themselves orally in English
- letters, magazine and newspaper articles, speeches and talks
- the concept of selecting and retrieving information from a written text
- the terms descriptive, personal, argumentative, discursive and narrative writing and have experience in both the reading and the writing of these texts
- the ideas of similarities and differences, advantages and disadvantages, problems and solutions, causes and effects, and actions and consequences
- the idea of answering questions on written texts as a means of demonstrating comprehension.

All of this knowledge should have been gained through at least two years of prior learning at secondary school level.

Assessment objectives outlined in more detail in the syllabus are referred to in this scheme of work in the first column. These include:

AO1: Reading

- R1 Demonstrate understanding of explicit meanings
- R2 Demonstrate understanding of implicit meanings and attitudes
- R3 Analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions
- R4 Demonstrate understanding of how writers achieve effects
- R5 Select for specific purposes

AO2: Writing

- W1 Articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined
- W2 Sequence facts, ideas and opinions
- W3 Use a range of appropriate vocabulary
- W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context
- W5 Make accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar

Guided learning hours

Guided learning hours give an indication of the amount of contact time you need to have with your learners to deliver a course. Our syllabuses are designed around 130 hours for Cambridge O Level courses. The number of hours may vary depending on local practice and your learners' previous experience of the subject. The table below gives some guidance about how many hours we recommend you spend on each topic unit of the scheme of work.

Unit	Suggested teaching time (hours/%)	Notes and suggested teaching order
Unit 1: Key writing skills	13 hours/10%	As this unit is to build on existing skills, and underpins skills to be taught it should be taught first. The unit consolidates existing skills and is designed to build confidence in the basics of English language: parts of speech, types of sentences and sentence structure, paragraphing, grammar and spelling. It introduces learners' ideas of audience, tone and register, as well as how writers make use of language through imagery.
Unit 2: Descriptive composition	13 hours/10%	The unit explores examples of good descriptive and personal writing and encourages learners analyse these. It takes learners through the process so that they will be able to produce their own pieces of descriptive and personal writing.
Unit 3: Argumentative composition	13 hours/10%	The unit explores examples of good discursive and argumentative writing and encourages learners analyse these. It takes learners through the process so that they will be able to produce discursive and argumentative writing.
Unit 4: Narrative composition	13 hours/10%	The unit explores examples of good narrative writing and encourages learners to analyse these. It takes learners through the process so that they will be able to produce narrative writing.
Unit 5: Directed writing	19.5 hours/15%	The unit explores the types of Directed Writing: reports, letters, articles and speeches. It explores the conventions of Directed Writing: content, layout, audience, tone and register.
Unit 6: Reading a variety of texts	6.5 hours/5%	The unit takes learners through fiction and non-fiction texts and explores the ideas of genre, audience and writer's craft. It is intended to foster an interest in reading and a desire to read and speak English in and outside the classroom.

Unit	Suggested teaching time (hours/%)	Notes and suggested teaching order
Unit 7: Summary writing- content, relevance and cohesion	19.5 hours/15%	The unit explains to learners the nature of summary questions and the importance of topic sentences, elaboration points and distractors. It teaches learners how to select content points from a text to be summarised and the importance of the rubric.
Unit 8: Reading for ideas	6.5 hours/5%	The unit explains how to identify and respond to the main ideas of a text, e.g. follow a sequence or argument, identify conclusion, distinguish fact from opinion, and give a personal response to the theme in a text.
Unit 9: Reading for meaning	26 hours/20%	The unit explains the difference between literal and inferential comprehension questions and teaches learners recognise their signposts and how to answer questions of each type. It teaches learners how to recognise and answer questions which have to be answered in own words, with vocabulary, quotation and writer's craft questions, and questions which can be answered by lifting from the text.

Resources

The up-to-date resource list for this syllabus, including textbooks endorsed by Cambridge, is listed at www.cambridgeinternational.org. Endorsed textbooks have been written to be closely aligned to the syllabus they support, and have been through a detailed quality assurance process. We recommend that you use one of the endorsed books and revision course book alongside this scheme of work.

School Support Hub

The School Support Hub www.cambridgeinternational.org/support is a secure online resource bank and community forum for Cambridge teachers, where you can download specimen and past question papers, mark schemes and other resources. We also offer online and face-to-face training; details of forthcoming training opportunities are posted online. This scheme of work is available as PDF and an editable version in Microsoft Word format; both are available on the School Support Hub at www.cambridgeinternational.org/support. If you are unable to use Microsoft Word you can download Open Office free of charge from www.openoffice.org.

Websites

This scheme of work includes website links providing direct access to internet resources. Cambridge International is not responsible for the accuracy or content of information contained in these sites. The inclusion of a link to an external website should not be understood to be an endorsement of that website or the site's owners (or their products/services).

The website pages referenced in this scheme of work were selected when the scheme of work was produced. Other aspects of the sites were not checked and only the particular resources are recommended. Note: Speaking and listening are not tested but the development of these vital communication skills is encouraged across the curriculum, and is reflected in many of the activities in the scheme of work.

How to get the most out of this scheme of work – integrating syllabus content, skills and teaching strategies

We have written this scheme of work for the Cambridge O Level English Language syllabus and it provides some ideas and suggestions of how to cover the content of the syllabus. We have designed the following features to help guide you through your course.

Learning objectives help your learners by making it clear the knowledge they are trying to build. Pass these on to your learners by expressing them as 'We are learning to / about...'

Suggested teaching activities give you lots of ideas about how you can present learners with new information without teacher talk or videos. Try more active methods which get your learners motivated and practising new skills.

Syllabus ref.	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
W5 Make accurate use of spelling,	Correct punctuation of parenthesis	Extension activity: Put learners into groups and ask them to move around the classroom looking at examples http://examples.yourdictionary.com/examples-of-tone-in-a-story.html of different writing tones – formal and informal, sarcastic, ironic, humorous, conversational. Learners add parentheses to given simple sentences. These simple sentences can be taken from texts or newspaper articles. (I) Ask learners to define 'writer's tone'. With a partner, learners list as many writing tones as they can. Can they reach 10? (F)

Extension activities provide your more able learners with further challenge beyond the basic content of the course. Innovation and independent learning are the basis of these activities.

Independent study (I) gives your learners the opportunity to develop their own ideas and understanding with direct input from you.

Past and specimen papers

Past/specimen papers and mark schemes are available to download at www

Past papers, specimen papers and mark schemes are available for you to download at:

www.cambridgeinternational.org/support

Using these resources with your learners allows you to check their progress and give them confidence and understanding.

Formative assessment (F) is on-going assessment which informs you about the progress of your learners. Don't forget to leave time to review what your learners have learnt, you could try question and answer, tests, quizzes, 'mind maps', or 'concept maps'. These kinds of activities can be found in the scheme of work.

Unit 1: Key writing skills

For learners to improve their writing skills, they need to attain correctness and accuracy in:

- Grammar
- Vocabulary
- Spelling
- Punctuation
- Layout conventions
- A range of sentence structures
- Linkage of information across sentences and paragraphs to develop a topic
- Appropriate register for the type of writing
- Awareness of the conventions in different genres of writing, such as letters, reports, dialogue and speech etc.

Teachers can use this possible sequence of writing lesson in which learners can develop writing skills. (I)

1. Introduce the topic they will be learning about. You can use pictures if you like. Conduct a group discussion of the subject in general - this will give everyone ideas for what to write about. Assign the writing task and deal with any misunderstandings.
2. Ask a learner to think about who is going to read the piece of writing (target audience) considering style, information, layout, etc.
3. Show the learners other exemplar work to illustrate the correct form.
4. Using the initial discussion as a springboard, get the learners to brainstorm ideas in groups, which you can then write up on the board. Learners can then choose which ones they want to use in their own writing.
5. Edit and put the ideas into a logical sequence individually or in groups.
6. Construct an example framework text in small groups or with the whole class.
7. Get the learners to prepare a rough draft in groups or individually.
8. Get the learners to discuss their work with each other and finally with the teacher.
9. Prepare and write the final text.
10. Go through each learner's work individually with them, discussing strengths and weaknesses of the work.

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
AO2: Writing W5 Make accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar	An overview of parts of speech	Elicit the eight most common parts of speech and list on a flip chart or board. Ask the class to define a part of speech. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Noun: a naming word. It names a person, place, thing, idea, living creature, quality, or action. E.g. cowboy, theatre, box, thought, tree, kindness, arrival • Verb: describes an action (doing something) or a state (being something). E.g. walk, talk, think, believe, live, like, want • Adjective: describes a noun. It tells you something about the noun. Examples: big, yellow, thin, amazing, beautiful, quick, important • Adverb: usually describes a verb. It tells you how something is done. It may also tell you when or where something happened. E.g. slowly, intelligently, well, yesterday, tomorrow, here, everywhere • Pronoun: used instead of a noun, to avoid repeating the noun. E.g. I, you, he, she, it, we, they • Preposition: usually comes before a noun, pronoun or noun phrase. It joins the noun to some other part of the sentence. E.g. on, in, by, with, under, through, at • Conjunction: joins two words, phrases or sentences together. E.g. but, so, and, because, or • Interjection: an unusual kind of word, because it often stands alone. Interjections are words which express emotion or surprise, and they are usually followed by exclamation marks. E.g. Ouch!, Hello!, Hooray!, Oh no!, Ha! Learners play the 'Bag Game': Learn Parts of Speech: www.education.com/activity/article/play_word_bags_third/
AO2: Writing W5 Make accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar	An overview of the noun	Learners work in pairs or small groups with a summary of the different types of nouns, www.icteachers.co.uk/children/sats/english_nouns.htm then complete a short quiz at the end to name the types of nouns from a list/table of different nouns. In pairs, learners write two short quizzes similar to those above, i.e. fill in a table with different types of nouns in a paragraph, which can be taken from a published text or make it up themselves, making sure they have checked the answers. They then swap their quizzes. (F) Ask learners to write 10 sentences showing their own examples of proper, collective and abstract nouns. They should underline all nouns. (F) At this stage it may be helpful to focus learners attention on and check their understanding of the use of the definite article 'the', the indefinite article 'a' or 'an' and where no article is required. When and which article to

Unit 3: Argumentative composition

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
AO2: Writing W2 Sequence facts, ideas and opinions	Define, recognise and understand the features of discursive and argumentative composition. (Point out that, although syllabus talks only of argumentative compositions, these can be either discursive or argumentative in nature.)	Start by asking learners to give examples of discursive composition, argumentative composition., and the differences between the two. Elicit the idea that discursive composition deals with two sides of an argument, whereas argumentative composition deals with only one side. https://patricktay.wordpress.com/2014/03/17/writing-discursive-compositions-secondary-level-part-i-differences-between-discursive-and-argumentative-essays/
AO2: Writing W3 Use a range of appropriate vocabulary	Understand discursive and argumentative composition and the differences between them	Put learners into groups and ask them to examine newspaper articles and pick out examples of emotive or persuasive language. Extension activity: Learners research what they can find out about emotive language www.encyclo.co.uk/define/Emotive%20Language
AO2: Writing W1 Articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined	Use appropriate vocabulary Speaking and listening	Put learners into groups and ask them to compile a list of emotive language of their own. Hand out some advertisements, articles and other texts where they can find more examples of emotive language. Learners can try this quiz about spotting emotive language: www.educationquizzes.com/gcse/english/emotive-language/
AO2: Writing W5 Make accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar	Understand the techniques of argumentative composition.	Put learners into groups and ask them to look at examples of articles in which a topic is argued either 'for' or 'against'. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> (i) work out and write down the main point the writer is making (ii) work out and write down the elements of the argument he makes to support his main point. In the same groups, they pick out examples of emotive or persuasive language in the given newspaper articles.

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
AO2: Writing W2 Sequence facts, ideas and opinions	Understand the techniques of discursive composition.	Learners read examples of discursive composition. With reference to each exemplar looked at, in groups learners (i) work out and write down the two possible points of view the writer is considering, e.g. for and against a particular issue (ii) work out and write down the elements of the argument he makes to support each of these possible points of view.
AO2: Writing W2 Sequence facts, ideas and opinions	Analyse argumentative and discursive composition.	Show learners examples of argumentative and discursive composition, and elicit more examples from learners. Learners in groups then re-read given examples of argumentative and discursive composition and pick out examples of the features of these genres of writing, concentrating on vocabulary and structure. Class discussion about how the structure of argumentative composition differs from the structure of discursive composition. Q and A session on what learners have learned. (F)
AO2: Writing W1 Articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined	Produce argumentative composition Speaking and listening	Ask learners to work with a partner on a given 'for' or a given 'against' topic, and produce a single 'for' OR a single 'against' paragraph (e.g. for capital punishment or against the mobile (cell) phone).
AO2: Writing W5 Make accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar	Analyse argumentative composition.	Learners swap their work with their partner, and write a short commentary on the merits and de-merits of their argumentative paragraph. Groups swap back and re-draft for peer assessment. (F) and (I) Extension activity: Useful guidance on how to write commentaries is given in our endorsed textbooks as well as worked examples. Ask learners to look at this guidance before beginning to write their own commentaries.

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
AO2: Writing W2 Sequence facts, ideas and opinions	Produce discursive composition.	Learners work with a partner on a given 'for and against' topic, and produce two paragraphs, one 'for' AND one 'against' (e.g. for and against school uniform).
AO2: Writing W2 Sequence facts, ideas and opinions	Analyse discursive composition.	Ask learners to swap their work with their partners, and write short commentary on the merits and de-merits of their partner's discursive writing paragraphs. Groups swap back and re-draft for peer assessment. (F) and (I) Useful guidance on how to write commentaries is given in our endorsed textbooks as well as worked examples. Ask learners to look at this guidance before beginning to write their own commentaries.
AO2: Writing W3 Use a range of appropriate vocabulary	Choose appropriate vocabulary	Learners work with a partner and look at linking words in discursive and argumentative composition. Good examples of discursive and argumentative writing can be found in our endorsed textbooks.
AO2: Writing W3 Use a range of appropriate vocabulary	Link ideas in argumentative and discursive compositions	Learners examine the way ideas are linked in samples of argumentative and discursive composition. Q and A session on what learners have learned (F)
AO2: Writing W2 Sequence facts, ideas and opinions W3 Use a range of appropriate vocabulary and context W5 Make accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar	Produce argumentative writing	How to write an argumentative composition: http://scc.losrios.edu/~thomasb/ESLW310_Argument_Practice_32pp.doc Put learners into groups and ask them to produce a paragraph plan for 'The advantages of the internet'. Extension activity: Learners use their prepared paragraph plan to write an argumentative composition entitled 'The advantages of the internet'.
AO2: Writing W2 Sequence facts, ideas and opinions	Produce discursive writing	Put learners into groups and ask them to produce a paragraph plan for ' The advantages and disadvantages of the internet '.

AO2: Writing W1 Articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined	Write about character	Keep learners in the same groups and ask each group to make a list of two or three characters for their genre. They write three sentences describing each character.
AO2: Writing W1 Articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined	Write about setting	Keep learners in the same groups and ask each group to create a setting for their genre. They write three sentences to describe their setting.
AO2: Writing W1 Articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined	Write endings	Keep learners in the same groups and ask each group to work out a possible plot for a narrative composition.
AO2: Writing W2 Sequence facts, ideas and opinions	Produce paragraphs	Keep learners in the same groups and ask each group to produce a paragraph plan for their narrative composition.
AO2: Writing W5 Make accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar	Punctuation of direct speech	Learners examine the use of the direct speech/dialogue in the short stories already studied and discuss its usefulness in narrative composition. Learners complete worksheets on http://www.skillsworkshop.org/resources/speech-marks Ask learners to write a short section of dialogue as an introduction to a narrative composition. Cover four genres. Extension activity: Put learners into groups and ask them to compile a list of words to use instead of 'said' in direct speech. Can they make 40? In groups learners look at www.spwickstrom.com/said/ for words to use instead of 'said'.

Unit 5: Directed writing

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
AO2: Writing W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context	Define, recognise and understand the features of directed writing	Ask learners to define directed writing and give some examples. E.g. a letter, speech, an article or report, which is fit for purpose and relevant to the world of study, work or the community. In pairs, learners choose one example of directed writing and make a list of the skills, vocabulary, tone, register, useful phrases and expressions, purpose of the text, sentence length they would expect to use when writing it. You may need to provide some examples which the learners can look at and make notes about.
AO2: Writing W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context	Understand the differences between directed writing and composition Speaking and listening	Working with a partner, learners look at examples of a directed writing exam questions. They make notes on the ways in which this task differs from an open-ended creative writing task. Working with a partner, learners think of the forms which directed writing might take. Elicit: reports, letters, emails, magazines or newspaper articles, speeches.
AO2: Writing W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context	Understand various genres in directed writing	Learners work with a partner to make a list of five possible directed writing tasks, in which each of the genres outlined above is covered.
AO2: Writing W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context	Understand audience, register and tone in directed writing Speaking and listening	Ask learners to define 'audience', 'register' and 'tone'. What different registers and tones do they use, and in what context? Answers are put on to flipchart or board. Extension activity: Working with a partner, learners make a list of as many tones as they can. Can they reach 12? In groups learners choose eight tones from the list in www.mshogue.com/AP/tone.htm And for each tone write a short paragraph which demonstrates the tone. (F)
AO2: Writing	Understand the conventions of task fulfilment and language	Learners should now understand that directed writing involves a more detailed task than composition writing. Ask them to define 'task fulfilment' and explain what they understand it to mean. Elicit the ideas that task fulfilment is 'what' is being written and language is 'how' it is being written.

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context		Learners look again at the example of a directed writing question used in a past examination paper. They should see that the three bullet points in the question comprise the area for task fulfilment and so must be covered in the answer. Look at corresponding mark schemes to see how the marks are given. Put learners into groups and ask them to make up five directed writing tasks of their own, one from each of the genres of: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • reports • letters • magazine or newspaper articles • speeches. Each task should have three bullet points. (F) Learners read the examples of directed writing written by the other groups. Q and A session on what learners have learned. (F)
AO2: Writing W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context	Understand the nature of task fulfilment Speaking and listening	Working with a partner, learners examine a mark scheme for assessment criteria for task fulfilment: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> (i) understanding purpose (ii) awareness of situation and audience (iii) using the correct format (iv) using the information in the question to justify personal opinion (v) using appropriate tone and register (vi) developing all bullet points given. Working in groups, learners discuss and write down what they think is meant by each of these criteria.
AO2: Writing W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context	Understand awareness of situation and audience Speaking and listening	Working with a partner, learners make a list of people for whom a piece of directed writing might be written, remembering that these might lead to both formal in informal writing.

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
AO2: Writing W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context	Understand the use of correct format for letters Speaking and listening	Working with a partner, learners look at rules and identify the elements of a letter – address, date, salutation, valediction, etc. Formal letter writing: www.usingenglish.com/resources/letter-writing.php#layout Planning a letter: www.bbc.co.uk/skillswise/factsheet/en11lett-e3-f-planning-a-letter
AO2: Writing W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context	Understand the use of correct format in magazine or newspaper article Speaking and listening	Take a selection of newspapers or newspaper articles into the classroom for learners to look at. Ask learners to work with a partner to identify the layout of newspaper reports – headlines, subheadings, interviews and statements, order of paragraphs, photos and captions, quotations, etc. In their pairs learners devise a multiple choice quiz for the class about newspapers. Questions could include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What is a headline? • Where would you expect to find a caption? • What do you think this story is about? ‘Freak weather’ • Why do articles include quotations? • Which tense are newspaper reports written in? • Etc.
AO2: Writing W4 Use register appropriate to audience and context	Understand the use of correct format in reports	Learners need to know the purpose and style of reports. List the features of a report, and ask learners to highlight these features in a text and include others.

Unit 6: Reading a variety of texts

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
	Distinguish between fiction and non-fiction Speaking and listening	Ask the learners to work with a partner to examine two fiction and two non-fiction texts. Learners make a list of features which distinguish the two and swap lists with their partner. Working in groups, learners make a list of features of any text, both fiction and non-fiction. They swap with other groups who identify the genre against each item in the list. Learners listen to and compare the statements in the two links below and discuss which ones they agree or disagree with: www.differencebetween.net/miscellaneous/difference-between-fiction-and-non-fiction/ www.writerlylife.com/2010/04/whats-the-difference-between-fiction-and-non-fiction/ Q and A session on what learners have learned. (F)
	Foster an interest in reading and an appreciation of its benefits Speaking and listening	Ask the class to sit in groups to discuss their favourite books and what they are currently reading, giving brief reports on a text of their choice. All learners bring a book/magazine, website page with them to show to the class. Learners write short paragraph about the books of three other learners, saying why they were persuaded by the speaker to read that particular book. This activity could also be done as a discussion, either with the whole class or in groups.
	Identify different genres of fiction and non-fiction texts Speaking and listening	In groups learners make a list of genres in fiction texts. Can they list 10? In groups learners read http://writing.colostate.edu/gallery/multigenre/genrelist.html and then make two columns headed 'fiction' and 'non-fiction', and assign each item in the list in the above website to the appropriate column.

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
AO1: Reading R3 Analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions R5 Select for specific purposes	Group discussion	Put the learners into groups and ask them to examine at least four fiction texts, each from a different genre. You can remind learners that genre is a kind of text and different genres have different kinds of setting and characters. Elicit different genres from the learners before you give them some examples, or ask them to pick some from the school library. Here are some examples of fiction genres which your learners may suggest: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ● Historical ● Fantasy ● Science fiction ● Mystery ● Folktales ● Etc. In groups, learners can discuss their preferences explaining why and giving examples of books they have read.
	Identify different genres of fiction texts Speaking and listening	Elicit what the learners understand by each of the following terms in fiction: character, setting, theme, plot. Match definitions to words, either using cards or worksheets. In groups learners identify key features of each of their four genres: what kind of character would they expect in that genres, what kind of setting, theme, plot.
AO1: Reading R3 Analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions	Evaluate fiction texts	Groups of learners list features of one genre and present their list to the class or ask other groups to add any other ideas. For independent study learners write a short commentary on the key features (as identified above) of at least one of their given genres of fiction texts. (I)
AO2: Writing W1 Articulate experience and express what is thought, felt and imagined	Write about fiction texts	Ask each learner invents a title for a fiction text in any genre and write a blurb for their imaginary text (maximum 50 words). Both title and blurb should reflect the chosen genre. Ask the learners redraft their blurbs so that they could be used as classroom displays. (I)

W5 Make accurate use of spelling, punctuation and grammar
	Identify different genres in non-fiction texts Speaking and listening	Ask the learners go back to list of genres of texts in http://writing.colostate.edu/gallery/multigenre/genrelist.html They should already have identified which of these are non-fiction. They should take at least four non-fiction genres now and identify with a partner its key features.
	Understand audience in non-fiction texts Speaking and listening	Ask the learners work with a partner to discuss the different audiences addressed in a selection of non-fiction texts. Texts from school library – autobiography, travel, sport, biography, etc.
AO1: Reading R5 Select for specific purposes	Identify key features of different genres of non-fiction texts	Put learners into groups and ask them to examine at least four non-fiction texts, each from a different genre. Ask each learner to write a short commentary on the key features of at least one of these non-fiction texts. Texts from school library – autobiography, travel, sport, biography, etc.
AO1: Reading R3 Analyse, evaluate and develop facts, ideas and opinions R5 Select for specific purposes	Distinguish between fiction and non-fiction	Learners read examples of Paper 2, and discuss the ways in which Passage 1 differs from Passage 2. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Passage 1: a factual text or texts, e.g. report(s), article(s), advertisement(s), letter(s), etc. Reading for ideas - learners are asked to identify and note down required information and write a summary based on relevance and coherence and then answer questions to identify the function of the text. - Passage 2: a narrative text, e.g. report article, story, etc. Reading for meaning - learners respond to short answer and multiple choice questions. Q and A session or a quiz on what learners have learned. Unit 7: Summary writing – content, relevance and cohesion

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
AO1: Reading R5 Select for specific purposes	Understand the nature of summary questions	Ask learners what they understand by the term ‘summary’. http://public.wsu.edu/~mejia/Summary.htm Learners should have a clear understanding of how to distinguish key information from extended information in order to be able to extract appropriate points from the given passage prior to undertaking any summary-writing activities, and an awareness of the sub-skills needed to complete the task correctly. One activity could be to provide simple sentences which learners extend by adding further information, or short passages on a specific topic could be given to extract the key idea and present in the class. Learners could be shown a clip or documentary in class and then asked to write and present information with the help of given key points within the specific word limit. How to stretch learners' thinking? Here are some general questions teachers can ask their learners to consider when summarising either fiction or nonfiction: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • What happened? • Who was involved? • What was the outcome? • Is the essential piece of information included? • Are interesting but nonessential facts or details eliminated? • Would someone who read my summary really understand the main points of the text? Following some practice, an assessment task could also be helpful. Rules or guidelines for writing a summary could be handed out in advance. The text could be selected randomly from newspapers, magazines or taken from past papers. Learners look at and identify the elements in the rubric of a past examination paper for summary. (F) 1123 past examination paper: Jun 2015 Paper 22 Q1(a)
AO1: Reading R5 Select for specific purposes	Understand the nature of summary questions	With a partner, learners examine the rubric of a short passage for summary, with given content points.

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
AO1: Reading R5 Select for specific purposes	Revise topic sentences	With a partner, learners finish the sentences below and make a list of the functions of topic sentences. What is the function of topic sentences? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • To provide • To introduce ... • To grab • To support ... • To summarise ...
AO1: Reading R5 Select for specific purposes	Learn how to select content points	Groups of learners look at non-fiction texts (Passage 1) from past question papers and answer the following questions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Is the passage developed with specific information (facts, statistics, etc.) that is related to the main topic? • Does all of the information support the main topic? • Does the passage have enough information to answer the question asked? • What are the elaboration points, i.e. points which merely add to points already made as opposed to being separate points in themselves? Q and A session on what learners have learned. (F)
AO1: Reading R5 Select for specific purposes	Select topic sentences from given texts	Put the class into groups and ask them to select the topic sentences from paragraphs of given texts. Select the test topic sentence and paraphrase: www.time4writing.com/downloads/PDFs/Printable-WritingParagraphs-TopicSentence-HS.pdf
AO1: Reading R5 Select for specific purposes	List content points in note form from a short texts	Keep the class in the same groups and ask them to list in note form the content points from a short text. Then reverse the task and give learners 10 content points which they should include in a short text.
AO1: Reading R5 Select for specific purposes	List content points in note form from a longer texts	Keep the class in the same groups and ask them to jot down in note form the content points in the past examination paper the rubric for which has already been examined. 1123 past examination paper: Jun 2015 Paper 22 Q1(a)

Assessment objectives (AO)	Learning objectives	Suggested teaching activities
	Provide opportunity for pair discussion and writing Speaking and listening	Ask learners in their groups to make a list of the content points of an argument: the advantages and disadvantages of email. Ideas can be found at www.bbc.co.uk/schools/gcsebitesize/ict/datacomm/1emailrev3.shtml Extension activity: Learners write a list of content points on a topic of their own choice. This may be for example, advantages and disadvantages of school uniform, etc. Ask learners to swap with a partner and write a version of their partner's argument using only the content points.

R5 Select for specific purposes		1123 past examination paper: Jun 2015 Paper 21 Q1(a)
AO2: Writing W2 Sequence facts, ideas and opinions	Write a summary in relevant, coherent English	Ask the learners to write out the content points from the previous exercise in relevant, coherent English which include the main points and is easy to follow. Remember that the focus of the summary task is on how the text is organised and the task fulfilment, rather than on spelling, punctuation and grammar. Learners swap with partner and write comment on each other's piece of relevant, coherent English, outlining merits of use of own words or sentence structure as well as pointing out any errors.
