My parents had been married for 25 years so I decided to organise a party to celebrate their wedding anniversary. It was going to be a surprise for them. My aunt said that it was a good idea. She would help me.

I phoned most of the members of our family and some friends, to inform them of the date. Fortunately, everybody would be free on that day. I invited 80 people. All the guests wanted to come.

We rented a room next to a restaurant not far from our house. It was large enough for our guests. One of my cousins had offered to buy cakes. My uncle, who is a chef, would prepare the rest of the food.

I told my parents that I had booked a table for lunch in a restaurant nearby. Of course, this was not true, but I hoped to surprise them at the last minute. At 12 o'clock we left by taxi. We arrived there a quarter of an hour later.

When I opened the door the guests started to applaud. My mother was delighted. We ate a lot, we drank fruit juice and we danced. The afternoon was a success. When everything was finished, mum and dad thanked me. They were smiling.
