3 Translate into Spanish.

I had always wanted to study at university but I couldn't decide what to do. I was lucky because I liked all my subjects at school and got good marks in everything. I didn't know what kind of job I would like either. I felt confused and anxious because I had to choose between different options at school.

Then my mother had to go into hospital. She was quite ill and I visited her every day. The doctors tried hard to find out what was wrong and how to help her get better. They discovered that Mum's stomach was the cause of the problem and she needed an operation. After that she recovered very quickly, came home and soon returned to her job as a dentist.

I was fascinated by the way the doctors worked and I liked being in the hospital. As a result I decided to follow medicine as a career so I chose sciences and worked hard to achieve my ambition to be a doctor. My mum is delighted that I will begin studying at university in October. I am looking forward to it very much but will miss my family.

At the moment, I am working in a supermarket to earn money and as a volunteer in a hospital, because it is essential for a doctor to understand people.
