General Marking Guidance

- All candidates must receive the same treatment. Examiners must mark the first candidate in exactly the same way as they mark the last.
- Mark schemes should be applied positively. Candidates must be rewarded for what they have shown they can do rather than penalised for omissions.
- Examiners should mark according to the mark scheme not according to their perception of where the grade boundaries may lie.
- There is no ceiling on achievement. All marks on the mark scheme should be used appropriately.
- All the marks on the mark scheme are designed to be awarded. Examiners should always award full marks if deserved, i.e. if the answer matches the mark scheme. Examiners should also be prepared to award zero marks if the candidate's response is not worthy of credit according to the mark scheme.
- Where some judgement is required, mark schemes will provide the principles by which marks will be awarded and exemplification may be limited.
- When examiners are in doubt regarding the application of the mark scheme to a candidate's response, the team leader must be consulted.
- Crossed out work should be marked UNLESS the candidate has replaced it with an alternative response.

(d)	Provides storage – of furniture awaiting transport – or sale - retailers can inspect the furniture – to examine the goods. Protects furniture from theft/damage/weather – as goods are not kept in the open air. To meet unexpected demand – unless there is surplus stock in the warehouse, the demand cannot be satisfied – and retailers will run out. To keep ahead of demand – as wholesalers need warehouses to make sure they meet shortages – thus balancing out supply of goods with the demand – keeps prices stable. Provides a place for processing functions – such as packaging or sorting. (1 mark for each point plus 4 marks for development)	(5)

Question Number	Answer	Mark
15 (e)	They would not want to compete with their own customers – the retailers – who then might decide to use the services of another wholesaler. The wholesaler would need to have two different kinds of premises – one for the retail in a shopping area – and a warehouse on an industrial estate – this would push up costs – that the wholesaler might not be able to afford. Operating both would increase the workload – requiring different/more skills – extra staff would be needed – who would require training – on customer service - and might need to use other wholesalers to supply the retail side of the business – more deliveries will be required – higher transport costs. Wholesalers do not have a direct link with customers - this would be time consuming – to provide personal services Would need to provide extra services - eg home delivery (1 mark for each point plus 5 marks for development)	(6)
