Answer TWO questions.

You should spend about 45 minutes on each question.

1 The French Revolution, c1780–99

Study Extract A.

Extract A: From A History of France, published in 2020.

During the Grande Peur people gathered on the village green or square to take instructions from their local leaders. They were told to attack potential counter-revolutionaries. Then large groups of peasants, sometimes entire villages, would gather up weapons and go in search of targets. Their violence was not random, they deliberately targeted people and buildings representing feudal authority. It was not bloodthirsty as fewer than 20 people were reported killed during July and August. However, the damage to private property was extensive.

(a) What impression does the author give about the Grande Peur?

You must use Extract A to explain your answer.

(6)

(b) Explain two effects of Napoleon becoming the 'First Consul' on France.

(8)

You must also use information of your own.

(16)

(Total for Question 1 = 30 marks)

2 Development of a nation: unification of Italy, 1848–70

Study Extract B.

Extract B: From A History of Italy, published in 2020.

The Second Battle of Custoza cost nearly 2,000 lives and left another 7,000 wounded men from both sides in agony on the battlefield. The Italian army was still struggling to combine the armed forces of the formerly separate states. The army was poorly trained, poorly equipped, and exceedingly poorly led. When the battle started the generals divided the Italian army into two fighting forces, which turned out to be disastrous. Austria's victory had been won for them by the inadequate decision-making of the generals in the Italian army.

(a) What impression does the author give about the Second Battle of Custoza?

You must use Extract B to explain your answer.

(6)

(b) Explain two effects of economic development on Piedmont in the years 1849–54.

(8)

- the role of the great powers.

You must also use information of your own.

(16)

(Total for Question 2 = 30 marks)

3 Germany: development of dictatorship, 1918–45

Study Extract C.

Extract C: From A History of Germany, published in 2000.

Stresemann's international policies were aimed at restoring Germany's position as a European power but achieved nothing. The Locarno Treaties benefitted only the French. Membership of the League of Nations actually weakened Germany. Stresemann's actions did nothing to change the fact that Germany was still regarded as a minor European power. Even the proposed Young Plan succeeded only in making Hitler better known as a politician. Stresemann's international policies never won the support of most Germans and failed to restore German pride.

- (a) What impression does the author give about Stresemann's international policies in the years 1924–29?

You must use Extract C to explain your answer.

(6)

- Nazi policies towards the young.

You must also use information of your own.

(16)

(Total for Question 3 = 30 marks)

4 Colonial rule and the nationalist challenge in India, 1919–47

Study Extract D.

Extract D: From A History of India, published in 1994.

The 1935 Government of India Act was a poor attempt to share power. It was intended that the Act would protect British interests. At the same time, it would give the provinces of India a legislative assembly and governor. However, when the Act was passed, it pleased almost no one. It was hated by most Indian politicians and even by a significant group of British MPs. The Act provided only a temporary solution to the problem of British rule in India, and an extremely poor one at that.

(a) What impression does the author give about the Government of India Act (1935)?

You must use Extract D to explain your answer.

(6)

- Mountbatten, Viceroy of India.

You must also use information of your own.

(16)

(Total for Question 4 = 30 marks)

5 Dictatorship and conflict in the USSR, 1924–53

Study Extract E.

Extract E: From A History of Modern Europe, published in 2000.

As General Secretary of the Communist Party, Joseph Stalin had enormous power. He was responsible for the appointment of thousands of officials, and so he was able to fill key posts with his own supporters. He was an able administrator, and particularly skilful on committees. Stalin was a superb politician, who possessed an excellent sense of timing, and gave the appearance of good humour. He also tried to appear as a moderate in the centre of the Party, who would appeal to all members.

- (a) What impression does the author give about how Stalin was able to become leader of the Communist Party?

You must use Extract E to explain your answer.

(6)

- (b) Explain two effects of the Battle of Stalingrad on the Soviet Union.

(16)

(Total for Question 5 = 30 marks)

6 A world divided: superpower relations, 1943–72

Study Extract F.

Extract F: From A History of the Cold War, published in 2009.

Matyas Rakosi emerged as leader of Hungary, and began to impose a dictatorship, calling himself a follower of Stalin. Rakosi used terror and brutality to keep control, killing an estimated 2000 people and imprisoning 200,000 political opponents. The secret police became a hated and dreaded part of Hungarian life. Religious teaching in schools was attacked in order to increase Rakosi's control, and the leader of the Hungarian Catholic Church was imprisoned for life in 1949. Rakosi's economic plans failed. Living standards, already poor, began to fall even further, and Hungary experienced its lowest agricultural output ever.

- (a) What impression does the author give about Rakosi's rule in Hungary?

You must use Extract F to explain your answer.

(6)

- (b) Explain two effects of ideological differences on relations between the Soviet Union and the West.

(16)

(Total for Question 6 = 30 marks)

7 A divided union: civil rights in the USA, 1945–74

Study Extract G.

Extract G: From A History of the United States, published in 2001.

It was one thing in the 1950s for the Supreme Court to make a ruling that schools should be desegregated, but actually achieving desegregation in the Deep South was much more difficult. The Ku Klux Klan re-emerged and the privileged White Citizens' Councils campaigned. This showed that the South would put up a long and bitter fight against desegregation. Just as depressing was the sight of white politicians enthusiastically broadcasting their racist views. These politicians knew that, in the Deep South at this time, being racist was the best way to be re-elected.

(a) What impression does the author give about segregation in the South?

You must use Extract G to explain your answer.

(6)

(b) Explain two effects of the work of Betty Friedan on women's rights in the USA.

You must also use information of your own.

(16)

(Total for Question 7 = 30 marks)

8 South Africa: from union to the end of apartheid, 1948–94

Study Extract H.

Extract H: From A History of Twentieth Century South Africa, published in 2001.

Unrest was spreading nationally in 1985, and began to achieve its aim of making the country ungovernable. Militant youths were on the move, jog-trotting in large groups through the streets, making their cause harder to ignore. Government offices, police stations, and shops were burnt in the townships. In response, Botha moved large numbers of troops into the townships. Conflict worsened as the larger weapons of the authorities were countered by street barricades and petrol bombs. In a terrifying incident, captured on film in Cape Town, police hid themselves on a lorry, waited till they had been stoned, and then shot their attackers.

(a) What impression does the author give about the situation in the townships?

You must use Extract H to explain your answer.

(6)

(b) Explain two effects of the Nationalist election victory in 1948 on South Africa.
